A Calendar of Dinners with 615 Recipes Marion Harris Neil

A Calendar of Dinners was originally published in 1913 and contains 615 recipes.

The culinary world revised its entire cookbook on account of the advent of Crisco, a new and altogether different cooking fat.

Many wondered that any product could gain the favor of cooking experts so quickly. A few months after the first package was marketed, practically every grocer in the United States was supplying women with the new product.

This was largely because four classes of people: housewives – chefs – doctors – dietitians - were glad to be shown a product which at once would make for more digestible foods, more economical foods, and better tasting foods.
