Pollution in Tropical Aquatic Sys Des W. Connell, Darryl Hawker

"Pollution in Tropical Aquatic Systems" discusses the physical, biological, microbiological and chemical aspects of pollution in tropical aquatic systems. It draws together much of the available data and information on the effects of tropical pollution into a single, comprehensive text. The increasing research and management interest in tropical systems should make this book of interest to a wide variety of readers involved in pollution impact and control in coral reefs, mangrove systems, and other tropical aquatic habitats. It is aimed at researchers, government regulatory personnel, and consultants involved in aquatic pollution impact and control.
