Edibles 2011 Robert Kaufman

The EDIBLES 2011 calendar is comprised exclusively of photographs of fruits and vegetables. Each image has been photographed by award winning photographer Robert Kaufman who has been creating images for the EDIBLES calendar since 1978. These stunning full color photographs help to remind us each month that nature offers its full bounty with the colors and shapes found in every fruit and vegetable. EDIBLES is the ideal kitchen calendar because it celebrates nature's bounty and reminds us that eating an apple can be just as appealing as eating any other item found in the cupboard. Moreover EDIBLES offers 12 fine art images that decorate and enhance any kitchen decor. Finally EDIBLES is the ideal calendar for promoting the green movement. Again, it is a daily reminder that our food does not have to come from far away but rather a local farm stand can offer us a perfect ear of corn or basket of berries. Over the years Kaufman has managed to find new and exciting ways to depict strawberries, tomatoes, red swiss chard and more. He does not take these beautiful items and put them in a studio but rather, Kaufman uses natural light to show us how these simple foods are part of the beauty that is around us. Since 1978 Kaufman has been photographing fruits and vegetables from all parts of the world. Each image is evocative and stunning. The viewer will enjoy each day of the month looking at the image and will still welcome the next month and it's new offering. EDIBLES has a grid with lots of room to write in important dates and appointments. It is printed on the highest quality paper stock and will be enjoyed all 365 days of the year.
