Eighty Ralph Ginn

Eighty is a story of a man whose life is fulfilled when he rescues, from sure death, a dog trapped against a concrete divider of an interstate highway. Cliff Fleener names his new best friend, Eighty. After a long and cherished relationship, the bond of love between man and his dog runs into the reality of age and declining health. Their answer is one of sadness and triumph Prin Greenbush (Heavens to Murgatroyd) is a pretty twenty-year old woman who was raised in religion demanding austerity. She flees the mainstream of her heritage and into a life of hubris. Crossing the river from her father's obsessive control, she finds a job in a downtown library and unwittingly falls in love with a homeless teenage boy that owns a wide smile and a sharp mind but lacks a high school diploma. These are two of the dozen stories that include: romance, drama, suspense, and cunning . . . adventures that will be a fast and pleasurable read for those who favor entertainment in the written word.
