The Back Story Back in 2014 I was feeling frustrated with my diary. I actually have an online to do list but nothing quite beats getting today's most important tasks down with good, old fashioned, pen and paper. I was using an A5 page-per-day diary and it really wasn't hugely inspiring. So, as a graphic designer by trade, I decided to design my own. It would be a combination of notebook, to do list, diary and business planner. And so the Ultimate Diary Planner was born (you can find out more about that at www.ultimatediaryplanner.com). 2 years on, I still luuuv my planner and use it every day, but I found another gap in my life that kept nudging me to be filled; notebook. You see, I tend to use my planner for day to day stuff and then use another notebook for dumping all my ideas and planning brainstorm etc. It's my go-to notebook when I need to map out a sales funnel, plan a new project or event, work out pricing strategy and lots more. Me being me, I decided I'd like something better. So I designed one! Introducing drumroll the M Planning Notebook. This is something that ticks all the boxes for what I have been lusting after when it comes to a notebook: + Looks gorgeous + Really useful with the combination of planning pages to get things out of my head in a structured way + Plenty of plain and lined spaces for more general note taking and doodling + Inspirational quotes on every spread (I love a good quote!) + Durable cover to stand the daily rigours of handbag travel + Pretty elements on the notes pages to make me smile I've always been a fan of beauty combined with functionality and that's what I've tried to create here with the M Planning Notebook. It has all the useful planning bits that I could want along with the outward packaging that makes me feel good when I use it. Features: + Numbered Pages Each page of the book is numbered and there is a double page index spread at the front, where you can jot down page numbers for easy reference. Particularly handy for when you want to find something you jotted down and need to refer back to at a later date. + Inspirational Quotes I'm slightly obsessed with positive quotes and affirmations (all the best people are!) and so I've made sure there's plenty in here to lift your spirits and get you thinking, with an inspirational/motivational quote on every spread. + Decorative Design Elements As I've already mentioned, I love notebooks and I wanted to give a little extra touch to the pages so I added subtle, decorative elements to the corners of the pages to make them even more gorgeous to use. + How To Pages At the back of the book you'll find a double page spread with a few tips about how to use the different spreads. Also a link to the Facebook group where you can get lots more tips, ask questions and chat to other LadiesThatPlan ;)
