Health care in the United States is currently undergoing drastic changes. A U.S. Government mandate states that all hospitals and health care organizations must convert current paper medical records and patient documentation charting to an "EMR" (electronic medical record system) by the year 2016. Hospitals are primarily budgeted for three types of personnel, doctors, nurses and patients. With this knowledge exposed, a number of lucrative employment opportunities currently exist for educated people who are looking to upgrade their earnings potential in a new career. This informative, full-color book explains the fundamentals of a vast, new and prosperous industry that offers a realistic potential for years of employment security for those willing to take the initiative to enter.
